

County Administration Center

Clerk of the Board Of Supervisors

Strelitzia Reginae

This evergreen shrub is commonly known as 'Bird of Paradise'. Many landscape architects and garden enthusiasts use Strelitzia Reginae for its low maintenance and colorful properties. This tropical plant gives a jungle appearance to any landscape and may be planted in full sun, coastal areas, or light shade. It can also stand cold up to 28 degrees. The blooms are like tropical birds in flight. Its flowers are on long lasting stiff stems and have orange, white, blue, and reddish purple colors. Foliage is blue green and likes frequent heavy feeding. Strelitzia Reginae blooms throughout the year and best in cold season. It grows up to 5 feet tall and can be good container plants.

Bird of Paradise

Bird of Paradise makes a very astounding arrangement with minimum plant material. The blooms come with a bright orange and blue color pattern and shaped like wild tropical forest birds in flight.

Phone: (619) 531-6269
e-mail: fortegcb@co.san-diego.com